IRRO LICENCES ORGANISATIONS TO COPY AND RE-USE EXTRACTS FROM PRINT AND DIGITAL PUBLICATIONS ON BEHALF OF THE COPYRIGHT OWNERS - AUTHORS, PUBLISHERS AND VISUAL ARTISTS.

By copying we mean photocopying, scanning and re-use of content from magazines, books, journals, electronic and online publications, as well as press cuttings or documents supplied by a licensed third party. Our licences provide a cost effective way to manage the risk associated with using and reproducing copyright materials.

WHO NEEDS A LICENCE?

With very few exceptions, any organisation photocopying, scanning or digitally reproducing material from copyright publications is likely to require a licence to ensure legal compliance. Our licences will help to reduce the risk and potential cost of copyright infringement. This requirement applies to any organisations in the business, education, public or charitable sectors.

WHAT CAN BE COPIED?

An IRRO licence is the only way to get blanket clearance that enables you (within limits) to copy what you want, when you want, rather than having to obtain permission from the copyright owners each time. Licences permit copying from most published in India and other international territories.

WHERE DOES THE MONEY GO?

We are non profit-making so all the money we collect in licence fees is distributed to the copyright owners after our costs have been deducted. We undertake surveys and audits of licensed organisations to help us pay the authors, publishers and visual creators whose work is being copied.

BENEFITS OF A IRRO LICENCE

- + Allows the copying of content from Indian publications and from other countries
- + Reduces the risk and the potential cost of copyright infringement
- + Offers the only way to get blanket cover so you don't have to seek permission copyright owners individually
- + Provides the convenience and certainty of a single transaction with one annual fee

PROTECTING CREATIVITY

We aim to obtain fair reward for authors, visual creators and publishers for the copying of their work. By supporting them in this way IRRO plays a part in maintaining the value of their work and helps to sustain creativity. This protection will help India's creative industries grow to support millions of jobs while enriching all our cultural lives.
